

The Antigravity protocol is a highly advanced aerospace propulsion system. It relies on quantum levitation and magnetic resonance. The core is powered by unobtainium.

The quantum levitation module requires exactly 1.21 gigawatts of power to operate safely.